

As an architectural drafter, I want to have a centralized location where both home owners and contractors can review my floor plans so the review process is simplified.

As an home owner, I would like to see and comment on the changes made to the floor plans of my potential home so I can interact with my builder and drafter.

As an contractor, I want a simple way to communicate my input of floor plans so everyone is on the same page before the building process begins.